
CHRISTOPHER WYANT

Christopher Wyant is Chief of Staff at the U.S. Trade and Development Agency (USTDA). Mr. Wyant joined USTDA after serving as the Economics Director of the Presidential Personnel Office at the White House. While working at the White House, he was responsible for overseeing vetting and hiring of Senate confirmed, Senior Executive Service, and Schedule C Presidential appointments at all economic agencies and commissions.

Prior to serving at the White House, Mr. Wyant held a number of leadership roles on Barack Obama's Presidential Campaign including as Field Director for Central Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. Mr. Wyant began his career as a Financial Analyst at Credit Suisse in New York City, where he tracked market trends, managed client relationships, and recommended investments. He graduated with a B.A. in History from Yale University.