

Turkey Gas Transit and Trading Hub Reverse Trade Mission October 21 - November 1, 2017

Houston, TX | Port Arthur, TX | Erath, LA | Lafayette, LA | Washington, D.C.

The U.S. Trade and Development Agency is hosting the Turkey Gas Transit and Trading Hub Reverse Trade Mission. The event will bring senior public and private-sector officials from Turkey's energy sector to the United States to learn about advanced U.S. technologies and solutions that can support Turkey's gas sector goals. Through a series of site visits, presentations, and a business briefing with U.S. industry, the delegates will be exposed to cutting-edge U.S. products, services, technologies, best practices, and regulations as they work to develop their own gas transit and trading hub infrastructure. The itinerary will feature the Henry Hub in Erath, LA – the primary natural gas trading hub in the U.S., as a means to share best practices with Turkey.

As part of the RTM, USTDA will host a business briefing for U.S. industry where delegates will present on their upcoming plans and procurements for the gas sector.

Turkey Gas Transit and Trading Hub Reverse Trade Mission October 21 - November 1, 2017

Background

Over the next decade, Turkey plans to invest more than $110 billion in its energy sector including efforts to establish the country as a regional gas transit and trading hub. The country will invest in its gas importation and distribution network, including infrastructure needed for plans to build a gas hub modeled after the United States' Henry Hub. As the largest centralized delivery point for natural gas spot and futures trading in the U.S., the Henry Hub serves as the pipeline interchange connecting nine intrastate and four interstate pipelines. It also distributes natural gas production to downstream consumption markets.

The Turkish government has already invested more than $55 billion over the last 13 years to restructure its energy sector, and has now become a prominent regional player in the energy market. Turkey's geographic location along with its proximity to major consumers, position it to become a potential strategic hub for oil and natural gas.

Meet Senior Delegates From:

The Ministry of Energy and Natural Resources (MENR) | The Petroleum Pipeline Corporation (BOTAS)
The Energy Market Regulatory Authority (EMRA) | Turkish Oil and Gas Association (PETFORM)
Energy Exchange Istanbul- EXIST (EPIAS) | Koc Holding | Zorlu Holding | Limak Holding
Aksa Enerji | Calik Holding | KOLIN | Turcas Petrol | Kalyon Group | EGE GAZ
